Iowa's political state conventions will be held as follows: Greenback, July 7; democratic, August 19; republican, August 23.

President Cleveland is giving a powerful illustration of the saying that a president is what his party makes him. In other words, he can not become greater than his party.

The wheat crop of California this year will be much reduced by bad weather and destructive bugs, but it is a surprise of sixty million bushels which will keep the wolf from the door.

Russia has instructed her ambassador in England to urge immediate action on the Afghan boundary question should the new British administration wish to reopen the discussion.

Arrangements are already making in England for the celebration next year of the fiftieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's accession to the throne. The rumor that her majesty contemplates abdication upon this occasion, receives little credence.

It is reported from Kabul that Isa Khan supported by allies, has risen against Abdullah Khan. Isa Khan marched upon Kabul. Isa Khan seized the treasure there, valued at $1,000,000, and belonging to the Amir of Afghanistan.

Mr. Spurgeon, the divine, has created a profound sensation by the publication under his own signature, of a scathing denunciation of immorality in the high official life in England. He furnishes a bill of particulars in support of his charges.

The ladies of the White House now living are: Mrs. James K. Polk, of Nashville; Mrs. Phillips, formerly Mrs. Betty Taylor Bliss, of Danbridge, Va.; Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnson, of Baltimore; Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. McElroy and Miss Cleveland.

A heroic size marble bust of Lieutenant General Phil Sheridan, by a Chicago sculptor, has been received at army headquarters in Washington. Similar busts of Generals Grant and Sherman are to be placed in the headquarters. The collection is being made by General Sheridan, and is provided for by congressional appropriations.

Lieutenant Colonel W. T. Gentry, of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, commanding officer of Fort Snelling for a year past, died Sunday night at 10:30 o'clock, of Bright's disease. He was 53 years of age, and a native of Centerville, Indiana. He graduated in the West Point class of 1856, and was an aide-de-camp to General Meade during the war. He leaves no family.

Samuel S. Burdett, of Washington, D. C., just elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, was born in Leicester, England, in 1836, emigrated to Ohio in 1848, studied at Oberlin college, became a lawyer, served three years in the late war, and reached the rank of captain. He was a presidential elector from Iowa in 1867; represented Missouri in the Forty-first congress, and later was appointed commissioner of the general land office in Washington.

Earnest Rob Howe is a musical prodigy of 2 years, a bright, sunny little fellow, who sits frequently at the piano with his grandmother, Mrs. Virginia A. Howe, an accomplished pianist, residing on Independence square, City Point, Va. The child can distinguish 48 tones, and in his own playing can can repeat over twenty airs. During a pupils recital a few evenings ago, the boy, while sitting on his mother's knee, joined in and sang two or three times.

Michael Davitt Sunday afternoon addressed a great mass-meeting in Chicago to protest against the proposed amendment to the English reform bill, which disfranchises every man who, within a year of any election, has obtained medical relief at the public cost. Mr. Davitt's remarks were significant in that he warned the English parsons, radicals and Tories alike, that the nationalists would not tolerate any half-way measures of relief for Ireland, and that Irishmen demanded the same right to manage their affairs as exist in Canada and Australia.

Steit's brewery, at Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, used by Xavier Steit as a residence, was destroyed by fire early Monday morning, and three of Steit's children were burned to death. The children were Jacob, aged 11 years; Francis, aged 8, and Cecelia, aged 5. Mr. and Mrs. Steit saved themselves and the baby by jumping from the windows. When the fire was discovered at 3:30, the building was nearly wrapped in flames, and the children were probably smothered by the smoke. The bodies were exhumed from one of the large cellars.

The statement of Professor Englewood that the Egyptian obelisk in Central Park, New York, is rapidly decomposing, is seconded by General G. Genola. The obelisk is certainly disintegrating, and its destruction is only a matter of time, owing to the sudden changes of temperature for which New York is noted, and the action of frost, which chipped the stone. The only remedy, he thinks, is to have it incased. This, he added, could be accomplished by placing it in the large central hall of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, which would involve the building of a store foundation to cost $40,000.

The appointment of Hadden, to succeed Collector Robertson at the port of

New York, seems to give great dissatisfaction to the democracy of that city, more particularly to the Tammany wing of the party. The note accompanying the news of his appointment assures the public that he "has always been a democrat and was endorsed by a large number of merchants and politicians," but the Tammany men declare that his appointment was a blunder; that Mr. Hadden had never been of any use to his party; that his selection was a crying shame as well as an insult to the democracy. It will doubtless turn out that Mr. Hadden is a very ordinary individual, with no qualities except his unwavering partisanship to recommend him.

An independent paper in the east, which has had an eye on Congressman Morrison for some time, throws out the remark: "Mr. Morrison appears to be one of the kind of men to whom the advice, 'don't monkey with a buzz-saw,' seems to mean nothing, even after they have lost two or three fingers monkeying with the saw. Probably Mr. Morrison needs to have his skull sawed off before he realizes that he knows nothing of it, is dangerous, but even so extreme an operation as that, probably wouldn't make much difference to him." The democratic papers have claimed all along that Mr. Morrison would not meddle with the tariff coming session of congress. But six months in advance of the meeting of congress he has given notice that he will "monkey with the buzz-saw." Free trade is his hobby. The only way he can claim any attention is to make himself ridiculous, and as he takes protection with the hatred that satan hates righteousness, he purposes to pursue his methods of the last congress and unsettle business and disturb the public mind by agitating the question of free trade. It is not likely that congress will endorse any of his free trade schemes, but the effect of agitation is bad, and that is the reason why the country wants nothing in the line of congressional fight against protection.

A few days ago the New-Yorker asked this question: "Wouldn't it make a sensation if the Hon. Roscoe Conkling should appear in the next democratic state convention of New York as a delegate?" Very likely would, but those who think that Mr. Conkling is nearer the democratic to-day than he was on the hey-day of his political fame, is badly mistaken. There has never been an indication since he unfortunately left the senate that he was at the least in sympathy with the democratic party. When human nature, which is pretty much the same the world over, is soberly considered, it is not strange that he did not take an active part on the republican side in the last campaign. In the first place he was not asked to take any part in the canvass; and in the second place he did not show the least symptoms of secretly supporting Cleveland. He never saw the man in his life and never spoke for him at any time or at any place. Roscoe Conkling may not have done his full duty last fall. Knowing what is known now, he could have made one speech which would have changed the destiny of the republican party, for a speech from him, in moral influence, would have more than wiped out the slender majority which placed the democratic party in power. But he was indifferent in his relations to the canvass but no more indifferent than the national republican committee was to Roscoe Conkling. A man is not apt to get up and shake kindly by the hand the man that knocks him down.

A Secretion that Contaminates the Blood.

When the bile is diverted from its proper channels, into the blood, which is always the case in liver complaints, it ceases to be a healthy secretion, and becomes a poison. Its abnormal presence in the circulation and stomach is indicated by the suffusion of the skin with a hideous saffron tinge, by head aches, vertigo, nausea, pain in the right side, and under the right shoulder blade, by indigestion, obstruction of the bowels, and other minor symptoms. Order may be substituted for this state of chaos, and further bodily improvement secured, by the use of the celebrated medicine, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. This pleasant and purely vegetable antibiotic medicine is not only infinitely more effective than any form of mercury, but it is on account of its freedom from hurtful properties, infinitely to be preferred to that poisonous drug.

Ohio Fresh-Bloods. SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, June 30.—Preparations are in active progress under the immediate supervision of Rev. A. B. Leonard, for the state Probation convention, which is to be held here July 1 and 2. Delegates from nearly every part of the state have been chosen, and according to information received by prominent prohibitionists, the convention will consist of not less than 500 delegates. Complete attention of health, vigor and temperance must of the state will number double as many more. Of the candidates that will be presented for nomination, Rev. A. B. Leonard is the favorite. Out of the 100 delegates, 40 are from the west, 30 from the north, 20 from the south, and 10 from the east. Professor F. A. Mills of Oberlin, has many warm friends and admirers.

THE KAISER'S DEATH

EXPECTED TO BE THE NEXT GREAT EUROPEAN SENSATION.

How it Would Probably Affect the Situation in England—The Queen's Daughter as Empress, and Her Husband's Affection for Wales.

New York, June 30.—A London telegram to The Sun says: The death of the Emperor William promises to be the next great sensation in Europe. Extraordinary precautions have been taken to prevent the sending of telegrams revealing his real condition, but private letters are not subject to the official censorship, and they give such discouraging forecasts that the news of his death is daily expected. In official circles in England the death of the great Kaiser is looked upon as an event of the very near future, and the extent to which this occurrence is calculated upon and discounted seems surprisingly heartless. His immediate political effect will be to bind Germany and England together in a very close union. The crown princess of England will be the empress of Germany, and the coming emperor is known as an affectionate friend of the prince of Wales and of Queen Victoria. Nothing more opportune for the new German government of Bismarck could possibly occur. With an Anglo-German alliance firmly established, the difficulties in the way of British foreign policy would disappear as if by magic, and the Salisbury ministry would get the credit of results wrought by the alchemy of nature. It is rumored that this was the object of the very high circles of the two empires before Lord Salisbury finally consented to take office, and that it very largely influenced his decision. There are hints of a second and secret treaty of Windsor that would place the administration that the prince and shadowy promises made by Mr. Gladstone. According to this story the Crown Princess Victoria assured her mother that the death of the emperor was only a question of a few weeks; that upon the accession of Frederick William to the imperial throne of Germany the influence of Prince Bismarck would cease to be a predominant and disturbing element in European politics, and that England would heartily support the colonizing enterprises of Germany, which are Frederick William's pet fads, there would be no obstacle to an Anglo-German alliance as against Russia in the East, France in Egypt, and the foes of rivals of England everywhere. All this being represented to Lord Salisbury opened to him a prospect of being able to arrange a union of weeks ago have been discharged. Resolutions were presented at the office of the superintendent Monday morning, and the declaration that if these demands were not satisfied the whole force would quit work at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning. The private secretary of Superintendent Lake told the communication into a paper basket, and the fragments of the man are not needed to a strike will follow.

At a meeting early Tuesday morning, no reply to the demands of the men having been received, it was unanimously resolved to quit work and no cars were taken out after 4 a. m. by union men.

The Mahdi is an Enterprising Man. LONDON, June 30.—It is reported that Khalifa Fudud is now journeying toward Cairo with letters from the Mahdi to the Khedive. The Mahdi has also written to the Emir of Shendi, enclosing a sum of money, which is to be augmented by means which the Mahdi expects for the Christian missionaries and nuns whom he holds as prisoners. The money is to be used to establish a school of divinity to accommodate 250 students of the new faith. The Mahdi, in a proclamation to the army, promises to send him to the Elysium to the soldiers who fall in battle against the infidels. At all points the renewed activity of Mahdism gives credence to the report that the government will require much more cooperation than before for the military protection of Egypt than Wady-Raife, the present frontier post.

Gladstone Retains the Leadership. LONDON, June 30.—Mr. Gladstone has addressed a letter to the electors in his parliamentary district in which he says he thought he should not again ask them to return him to parliament, but events have recently transpired which render it necessary that he should take no step that might imperil the unity and efficiency of his party. This is considered tantamount to an admission of his intention to remain the leader of the Liberal party.

A Terrible Hain in Paris. PARIS, June 30.—A terrible rainstorm, accompanied by violent winds, prevailed in and about Paris Monday. The streets were flooded and many of them impassable. In one street the weight of water caused the cracked walls of a sewer to collapse and twenty persons were precipitated into the filthy torrent below. They were rescued with great difficulty, some by firemen and some by the police. A boat containing twelve persons was captured in the Seine and its occupants carried by the current a considerable distance before they could be picked up. In the department of Vosges seven houses and two bridges were destroyed by the flood.

Bold Attempt at Robbery. KIEFF, June 30.—An attempt was made Sunday to rob the imperial treasury at Osmann of the million roubles deposited therein. The robbers were fired upon and escaped without securing their booty.

More Earthquake in Castlere. SIMLA, June 30.—Shocks of earthquakes have again become frequent in the vale of Castlere, but are generally light and have caused little damage or loss of life.

The Cholera. VALENZUELA, June 30.—Up to noon Monday 59 new cases and 21 deaths from cholera were reported.

Trist of Joseph C. Mackin. CHICAGO, June 30.—In Judge Moran's bench of the criminal court, Joseph C. Mackin Monday applied for a change of venue from Cook county in the perjury case pending against him. The application was overruled, and Mackin planned no further. The day was occupied in getting a jury.

APPREHENSION AT MT. MCGREGOR.

Gen. Grant Tries to Inspire His Troops.

Mount McGregor, N. Y., June 30.—Gen. Grant decided before noon Monday that he would not leave his room. It was pleasant outside, but the dreaded sick-room was more to his liking. There he sat, dressed as he was during the night, heedless of his surroundings, and with no wish except that he might be left to save what little strength remains to him. That was not quite the way he put it, but it was so construed. He said he did not care to leave the room, because if he went out he might be tempted to work, or have to submit to conversation and perhaps annoyance. Dr. Douglas looked frequently into the room, so that the general might not want for attention. His solicitude was noticed by the general, who, early in the afternoon, wrote to him that he had enjoyed a restful day, and was quite as well as Sunday. The note, as the night staff further to make the doctor's mind easy, conveyed the news that the general might be pleasant enough for him to go out doors.

Some apprehension was felt by the family during the afternoon, lest the general's weakness had reached the stage at which danger was imminent. This feeling could not be concealed from the general, and 3 o'clock he rose and was fully dressed, but his disposition to be quiet and to remain in the sick-room did not leave him. He said he would not again the confidence with which he evidently wished to inspire them, he wrote the following: "Give myself no the least concern as long as there is no progress there is hope."

There was some comfort to the family in this courageous note, and evening came with hope in some degree revived. The evening, as of late, passed quietly and without event. Quite early the general joined the family in the parlor, remaining with them until about 8 o'clock. He gazed at his throat frequently and when he was ready for the night, he was late for Dr. Douglas to be. The general was fully prepared for rest before 9 o'clock, and he was asleep within an hour. Dr. Douglas said he thought the indications for the night were as favorable as they were Sunday night. The general awoke twice between 9 and 11 o'clock, the second time coughing so severely, that the doctor, who had gone to the hotel for a few minutes, was summoned. The trouble was soon relieved, and he passed off again.

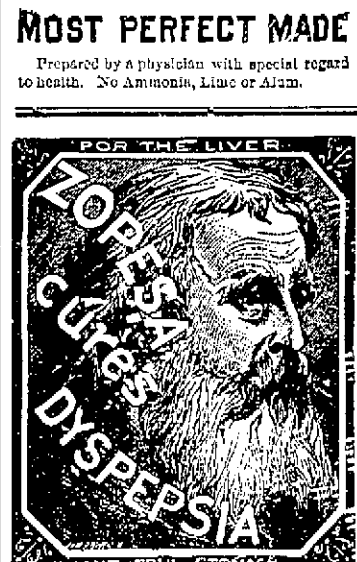

Strike on Chicago Street Car Lines. CHICAGO, June 30.—Another strike of the drivers and conductors, numbering over 1,000, is threatened on the West Division City railway. Several of the leaders who took a prominent part in adjusting matters between the men and the company, and who of weeks ago have been discharged. Resolutions were presented at the office of the superintendent Monday morning, and the declaration that if these demands were not satisfied the whole force would quit work at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning. The private secretary of Superintendent Lake told the communication into a paper basket, and the fragments of the man are not needed to a strike will follow.
